

IT'S A SELL-OUT

Chelmsford Amateur Operatic and Dramatic Society opened at The Civic Theatre last night with the first performance of My Fair Lady which the members have been rehearsing since last November.

The show which is continuing all week is a complete sell out and Ray Feffery, producer and director, says My Fair Lady is one of the best written musicals and one of his favourite shows. He is pleased with the "strong cast" which has been selected.

Pam Medcroft stars as the tattered Eliza who becomes a rare beauty, Professor Higgins is played by David Hawkins, Alfred Doolittle by Robin Smith and Colonel Pickering by Nevil Shreeve, who played the same part last year with the Brentwood society. Peggy Green as The Queen of Transylvania was one of the founder members of the society in 1920 and played many leading roles in the society before the war.
